Trump Pardons General Michael Flynn

Trump has decided to grant a pardon to General Flynn, ending the long legal saga against him the security state has drummed up surrounding Russiagate. Trump fired Flynn back in 2017 for lying to the FBI and Pence about his conversation with a Russian ambassador. He is the only White House official to be convicted by Robert Mueller as part of his investigation. As with most of these convictions, they hinge on process crimes. I am no fan of Flynn, nor really of anyone in the Trump circle. However, I am no fan of the FBI either and I have said many times that it is morally incumbent upon Trump to protect his allies.
